

MONTVAILLANT LYRICS ONE MORE DAY LESS

ONE MORE DAY LESS

MONTVAILLANT

ONE MORE DAY LESS

In the depths of this tangled affair, we're dancing on the edge, we're unaware.
Love so toxic, it hurts to breathe, but we hold on tightly, afraid to leave.

The fire burns bright, the embers gleam. Yet it's clear this love is but a dream.
In the shadows, our hearts confess with every passing day, we love one less.

One more day less if you want to love me.
One more day less to set us free. One more day less being with you.
One more day less if you want to leave me.
One more day less being a part of. One more day less a part of you.

There's a poison flows through our veins,
we ignore the signs, and we hide the stains.
We keep pretending that it's alright,
yet the pain grows stronger, day and night.

We build our walls, can't let go of pride,
in this broken love, we both reside.
We ignore it though we know it's true,
and as we drift apart, I know I'm losing you.
We're trapped in chains, unable to break.
This toxic love's a grave mistake.

One more day less if you want to love me.
One more day less to set us free. One more day less being with you.
One more day less if you want to leave me.
One more day less being a part of. One more day less a part of you.

With every fight, we lose a bit more. Our hearts are weary, our spirits sore.
But love should never feel like a war.
A constant battle, forevermore. A constant battle forever.

It's time to find our separate ways, before there's nothing left to save.
Before there's nothing left to save.
It's time to find the love that we need, to find the love we crave.

The sands of time, they slip away. We can't go on living life this way.
One more day less, it's our time to part.
Heal our wounds and mend our broken hearts.